

Blind Contour Mini Project

For this project, you will think of an object (a non-living thing) that you think represents who you are. In other words, if you were an inanimate object, what would you be? You will also draw a portrait of yourself in this project.

You cannot choose cell phones, computers, laptops, TV, Tablets, brand names or logos... for your object.

Step 1: Draw your object

You will do a blind contour of the object you chose using a coloured marker (not black) Use a real object or a picture of your object to look at while you draw. Remember, don't look at your paper and keep your marker on the page!

Step 2: Draw your Face

Now, you will complete a blind contour drawing of your face on the same piece of paper. You will use a very thick black marker for this drawing. Your face will overlap with parts of your object. Look in a mirror while you draw your face. Remember, don't look down at your paper!

Step 3: Add some darker areas to your drawing

Colour in some sections of your drawing with black or the colour of your object. This will make some darker, solid patches in your composition.

Step 4: Cut out your drawing

Cut around the perimeter of your drawing so that you cut away all the blank space around your head. Your finished piece will no longer be on a rectangular piece of paper.
